NEW-YORK CITY.

The funeral of Dr. William Henry Jackson, who died on Friday at his home, No. 555 Madison-ave., took place yesterday afternoon at the Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Henry Y. Satterlee, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Cameron. The burial will be at Woodlawn this morning.

The Amateur Players' Club will hold the first of its five meetings at Sherry's on the evening of December 6, at 9 o'clock. The entertainment will consist of a short play and several selections of music by the active members. There will be a dance after 11 o'clock.

The execution against Emma E. Batchelder, baker and confectioner at No. 42 West One-hundred-and-twenty-fifth-st., No. 288 West One-hundred-and-sixty-sixth-st., and No. 2167 Seventh-ave., published on Sunday, it was said at the Sheriff's office yesterday, had been satisfactorily settled.

The report published yesterday to the effect that the Hamburg-American steamship Puerst Bismarck was overdue was misleading. The Puerst Bismarck arrived at Algiers on Saturday, her scheduled time, and at Naples yesterday morning. She sailed from New-York on November 16, and considering the condition of the weather on the North Atlantic she made a quick passage.

Alfred Hirschberg, seventeen years old, whose home is at No. 133 East One-hundred-and-seventy-st., came near being killed by a cable car in Broadway at Bleecker-st. yesterday afternoon. He jumped out of the way of a car No. 80, but was caught between the car and a truck driven by Peter F. Johnson, of No. 270 Baiter-st., Brooklyn. The car could be stopped Hirschberg was squeezed against the truck so hard that his hip was cut severely and three of his ribs were broken. He was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Mary Hooker, the young woman who fell down a dumb-waiter shaft on Sunday and underwent a surgical operation involving the removal of the spinal processes and laminae of three dorsal vertebrae, was reported at the New-York Polyclinic Hospital yesterday to be in a most satisfactory condition. Dr. R. A. Hibbs, the house physician, hoped to be able to discharge her in two weeks.

Josephine O'Brien, fifteen years old, who tried to commit suicide on Sunday evening at the home of her parents, No. 66 Leroy-st., by hanging herself, was committed to the Catholic Penitentiary in a police car yesterday. She said her parents abused her.

Hamilton W. Mabie will deliver a lecture to-night on "Literature and Life," under the auspices of Columbia College, in the great hall at Cooper Union. No tickets of admission are required.

AFFAIRS IN BROOKLYN.

MR. RITTER DENIES THE CHARGES.
THE OWNER OF THE MÖLLENHAUER REFINERY INVESTIGATING THE ALLEGED EMPLOYMENT OF MONEY FOR EMPLOYMENT.

John Möllenhauer, the owner of the big sugar refinery in South Brooklyn, was seen last evening by a Tribune reporter at his home, No. 156 Ross-st., and when spoken to regarding the accusations made by Joseph Knabel, of No. 51 McKibben-st., against Mrs. Annie Cohen and her husband, alleging the payment of $25 to them for a place as a laborer in the refinery six weeks ago, and his subsequent discharge a few weeks later because he refused to pay an additional $25, said: "I have questioned my superintendent, Mr. Ritter, regarding the statement of Knabel, who alleges that the Cohens declared they had to pay him out of the refinery, and he said that there is not the slightest ground for the accusation. I am inclined to believe him, as he has always been a faithful employee, and never before was a stigma cast against him."

"What action has been taken by you regarding the alleged accusations against this man Cohen, in your employ?" asked the reporter.
"I am still investigating the matter, but until I have some definite proof that the Cohens took this money from Knabel and his brother-in-law, Siegel, I will believe him innocent, and allow him to continue in my employ."
Mr. Möllenhauer told the reporter that Cohen had denied the charges and intended to prosecute his accusers. Mr. Möllenhauer continued by saying that Mrs. Cohen was prostrated at her home from the notoriety she had received and the annoyance she was subjected to by newspaper reporters.

NO DEFENSE IN THE BARLOW DIVORCE SUIT.

No defense was interposed yesterday in the suit of Dr. John W. Barlow for absolute divorce from Mrs. Jessie A. Barlow, which was tried before Judge Cullen in the Supreme Court. The co-respondent, George M. Timmerman, of Philadelphia, Dr. Barlow testified that they had five children. On March 14, 1883, his wife was at the Cosmopolitan Hotel in New-York with Giles, and they were registered as E. Osborne and wife. Mrs. Giles was called as a witness and identified the handwriting on the hotel register as that of her husband. Judge Cullen stated, after other evidence to the identity of the wife to the hotel, that he would decree as soon as the testimony was written out.

THE TROLLEY TAKES ANOTHER LIFE.

A man named Edward Quinn, of No. 121 Wyckoff-st., fell a victim to the fatal trolley at Fulton and South Oxford sts. yesterday afternoon. He was standing on the car track engaged in an earnest conversation with his brother when a car of the Fulton-st. line approached them. The motorman rang his bell and supposed that they would get out of the way, but the two men paid no attention to it until it was close to them. They then sprang to one side, but Edward Quinn was not quick enough and was caught under the car wheels and so badly injured that he died a short time after he was taken to the Fourth Precinct Police Station. The motorman and conductor of the car were arrested.

THE DINNER FOR ST. CLAIR MCKELWAY.

There will be about 200 of the prominent public men of Brooklyn at the dinner to be given this evening, in the Poughkeepsie, in Clinton-ave., in honor of St. Clair McKelway, Editor-in-Chief of "The Eagle." Owing to the unavoidable absence of George M. Olcott, who was to preside, Dr. Truman J. Backus will act as toastmaster. Besides Mr. McKelway and Dr. Backus, the speakers will be E. L. Godkin, Editor of "The Evening Post"; H. S. Hewitt, ex-Mayor of New-York; the Rev. Dr. Storrs; Edward J. Sheppard, General of the Supreme Court Judge-elect; General Stewart L. Woodford and Mayor-elect Charles A. Schieren.

WEAKENED BY HIS INJURIES.

A badly battered man was charged with drunkenness in the Adams Street Police Court yesterday. He was George Burns, of No. 22 East Tenth-st., New-York, and was an engineer on the steamship City of Savannah when he was wrecked at Gay Head, in January, 1881. His skull was fractured and had to be trepanned, three ribs were broken, and both legs and an arm were fractured. He spent a year in the hospital and went out a physical wreck. He pleaded guilty to intoxication yesterday and said that one glass of liquor went to his head and he lost his senses. When set free he declared he would never drink again.

MR. SCHIEREN OPENS A FAIR.

Mayor-elect Charles A. Schieren, of Brooklyn, last evening opened a fair for the benefit of the building fund for a Home for Epileptics, in the assembly rooms of the Kings County Savings Bank Building at Bedford-ave. and Broadway. Brooklyn has no such hospital, and admission to the hospitals in the city is refused to epileptics in many cases. The fair, which will continue until Thursday night, is under the management of St. Mark's and Christ Episcopal Sts. Peter and Paul Roman Catholic; All Souls' Universalist, and the Central Methodist Episcopal churches.

THIEVES DESTROY PAINTINGS.

The police of the Sixteenth Precinct were informed yesterday that thieves had effected an entrance into the building house at No. 186 Rockwood-ave., owned by Frank Seaman, and had stolen silverware valued at $2,000. Many handsome paintings were destroyed, having been cut in places while hanging on the walls. Mr. Seaman lives with his family in the dwelling adjoining. He formerly occupied No. 186, but had recently stored in the building silverware and other valuable household effects which had been removed from the Carleton House, of which he was, until a few months ago, the proprietor. The silverware was stored in boxes which had been broken open. It is believed that the thieves were frightened off before they had time to make a bigger haul, as the goods stored were valued at $2,000.

GATHERED ABOUT THE TOWN.

The hearing of evidence in the suit of Mrs. Eliza Jane Priddy for limited divorce from James Priddy, principal of Public School No. 31, was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court. The allegations in the complaint, setting forth cruel treatment, and the denial in the answer, have already been published.

A protest was sent to the Aldermen yesterday by residents of Pierpont-st., between Henry and Clinton sts., against granting the right to any railroad company to build on that block. It was referred to the Railroad Committee.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday adopted the official figures of the canvass of the vote for city officers.

The canvass of the vote in the 11th Senate District by the Supervisors was completed yesterday, and the result showed a majority for Senator McCarty of 56 over Henry Wolfert. The latter will contest the seat.

The South Brooklyn Railroad and Terminal Company has finally secured permission to cross the highways on its route from Thirty-sixth-st. to Jamaica, crossing Flatbush, the Twenty-sixth Ward and the town of Jamaica. It is proposed to build the road in a cut about twenty feet deep, so as to cross the streets below grade.

Gaetano Simonetti, an Italian living at No. 93 Havermeier-st., was remanded by Justice Goetting yesterday in the Lee Avenue Police Court to await the result of injuries inflicted on Mrs. Annie Jonzello on Sunday. The woman is said to be in a critical condition. The assault was the outcome of a demand made by the woman for $6 she had lent to the man. Instead of paying her the money, Simonetti, it is alleged, knocked her down and kicked her in the abdomen.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

WHITE PLAINS.

The trial of Daniel Monahan, of Yonkers, on an indictment for manslaughter in the first degree, which charges that he killed his wife to death, was begun before Judge Isaac N. Mills and a jury in the County Court yesterday. Mrs. Monahan died on July 15, a few minutes after the brutal attack, and in great agony. District-Attorney Platt appeared for the State, and Assemblyman-elect John C. Harlan for the defendant. The most important witness was Bridget Casey, of Yonkers, who was in Monahan's home on July 16, and testified as to the assault. The trial will be continued to-day.

MOUNT VERNON.

George C. Needham, the evangelist, gave an address in the Baptist Church, Mount Vernon, last night on "Dwight L. Moody: His Work and Its Results." A special invitation was extended to the members of all other churches of the city. . . . A union thanksgiving service of the Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist and Reformed congregations will be held in the church of the latter, on Thursday morning. The Rev. Lewis R. Streeter, pastor of the Methodist Church, will preach the sermon. . . . Miss Fanny Granberry Levy began a course of song lectures in Ward Hall last night. The first lecture was on "Songs of England."

YONKERS.

The young people are taking more than usual interest in charitable work this season. Pairs held by children for some charitable purpose are of frequent occurrence and are always successful. A children's bazaar was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. E. Hitchins, No. 25 Woodworth-ave., realized about $5 for the Fresh Air Work, which Miss Mary A. Nelson has been carrying on for several years. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Conzons, who were injured Saturday by a fall from their car in the Boulevard, are now recovering in this city, where they have many friends. . . . The Yonkers Teutonia held the first in its winter series of musical and dramatic entertainments at Teutonia Hall Sunday evening. The program included a mandolin and violin solos, and a piano solo. The "Happy Cooper," among those who took part were Otto Kott, Frank Steadman, W. W. Wiggins, William Wiggins, Frank W. Frawater, the Eagle Quartet and the Teutonia Singing Society.

SING SING.

The annual harvest-home festival of the Broadway Mission will not be held this year, owing to the special services in the churches. There is, however, more need than ever this year for contributions of money, new or cast-off clothing, shoes, underwear, coal, wood, provisions, etc. . . . The Medical Board of Ossining Hospital has designated Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, as dispensary days.

NEW-JERSEY.

NEWARK.

The nineteenth anniversary of the Newark Female Charitable Society was celebrated yesterday. The annual meeting was held at the home, at Hill and Halsey sts., Mrs. A. E. Martin, the secretary, read a report of the work accomplished during the year just ended. The society gives aid to distressed families, furnishes employment to women, cares for orphan children of workwomen, and, in the summer months, mothers and children, on fresh air excursions into the country.

William Harris, fifteen years old, living at No. 314 Warren-st., Harrison, died yesterday from the effects of a fall on some railroad ties. The boy was employed as a messenger to carry United Press dispatches from New-York to the Newark afternoon papers, and was returning on one of his trips Saturday when he met with the accident. . . . George M. Timmerman, the New-York lawyer who escaped from the Morris Plains Lunatic Asylum on Saturday, was taken back to the asylum yesterday.

The directors of the Home Brewing Company have found a difference of from $5,000 to $6,000 in the books of the company, which they are unable to account for. They are waiting for the return of Bernard E. Crosby, a former collector for the company, who has been residing in the South. He was discharged some time ago. He owns some stock of the company.

The Essex County Grand Jury made its final presentation last night, and was discharged by Judge Deane. The question of removing poles from the center of the streets was settled by a compromise. Judge Deane agreed in the term directed the Grand Jury that the poles were unlawful, and suggested that the officials of the traction company be letted by the jury's judgment was to refrain from indicting the railroad men, on the strength of their promise to remove the poles as quickly as possible. They are all to be removed by October 1, 1895.

ELIZABETH.

There was a commotion in County Physician O'Reilly's office at Elizabethport yesterday, when a man walked in and announced that he had small-pox and wanted to be treated. His face and hands were covered with pustules, and in a moment he had the office to himself, as all the patients there and the physician himself lost no time in bolting for the door. Dr. O'Reilly locked the man in and sent telephone messages for the police and health authorities. An ambulance was secured, and the man was removed to the pesthouse. He belongs in Lorraine, a suburb of Elizabeth, and has walked four miles through the streets to the office of Dr. O'Reilly. Fears are entertained lest the patient in his long tramp may have communicated the infection to others, and the health authorities are much alarmed.
